Rarely does an opportunity like this come about! The famous Col. George Gillespie Home in Limestone TN is on the market. This true historic treasure was lovingly and meticulously restored by its current owners to its authentic original grandeur. Built in the 1780's, the house was crafted with native East Tennessee Limestone with 2 and 3 foot thick walls. Nothing was neglected during the restoration and it's evident upon entering the home. The property consists of several structures besides the home. Also included is a charming log guest house that has all the modern amenities, a true replica of the original detached kitchen when the home was built, original smoke house and other authentic buildings. The property consists of 2.8 ac and is partially wooded and offers a special ambiance for the surroundings. This is truly a very rare opportunity that shouldn't be missed.
